Volunteering News Summer 2023

RSVP West Membership

Welcome to all new members who have recently joined RSVP West we hope you will enjoy your chosen activity.

Unfortunately a number of members who had to curtail their activities during the pandemic have not been able to return. Please keep telling your friends and family about RSVP – we know that word-ofmouth is still by far the most effective recruitment method.

Please suggest a name (with email address) of any organization or person that you think

Volunteering News

The Editor, Pam Eastley pamela.eastley@ rsvp-west.org.uk, is always looking for news articles, preferably with a photograph.

Please let Office Coordinator Hilary Roberts hilary.roberts@rsvp-west.org.uk have the names of people (with their email addresses) who will be happy to be added to the Newsletter External Contacts list.

Volunteering Matters (VM) RSVP Steering Group

Our representatives on this group Paula Johnson and Judy Harris, and Hilary Roberts have been heavily involved in the creation and delivery of a survey of RSVP West's Organisers. The results were very encouraging (see later) and have led to the release of a national survey.

It is great to see most of our activities returning to some form of normality this summer.

Finance

In the year-ending March 2023 we maintained a good balance between income and expenditure. We are grateful to have received continued funding from South Gloucestershire and North Somerset Councils. the John James Foundation and the Paradiam Norton Trust.

Happy Volunteering!

Disclosure and Barring Service

Well done to all of our Organisers who are now using the online system for DBS applications. We've had a few hiccups along the way as we all became familiar with the technicalities but now the 'Dashboard' is no longer a mystery to us.

There are a number of advantages to using the online version:

Speed – applications are handled much more quickly than they were with the old paper form version. As long as there are no queries, DBS certificates are usually issued within a few days.

Simplicity – the online forms provide prompts to ensure that applicants complete the forms correctly in the first instance.

Efficiency – forms no longer need to be signed, posted to the DBS Co-ordinator, verified, then posted to a counter-signatory in London before being posted to the DBS. Lots of envelopes, stamps and leg-work!

However, one of the greatest advantages is that applicants can register online for the "Update Service". Once registered, they will no longer have to do repeat applications after every 3 – 5 years. It is also possible to undertake other roles without having to do a separate application for each one... and it's free for volunteers. Apologies to Organisers for my endless nagging about using the Update Service!

Of course, we've had to learn how to use a new system and there's no escaping the need for computers, but we've learned new skills and become much more efficient in making sure that our volunteers are properly vetted.

Fallodon Way Tea and Talk Group

The group meets monthly at Trinity-Henleaze United Reform Church and is made up of mainly isolated individuals who live alone. We are supported by volunteers including the RSVP volunteer drivers who transport our guests to and from the venue. Our meetings are an opportunity to socialise, have a cuppa and cake and often include guest speakers.

In April we had a very entertaining hour with Joel (The Hat Man) who talked about the history of different men's hats punctuating his presentation with some comical musical interludes!

In May we didn't have a speaker so we took the opportunity to reflect on experiences of the Royal Family (It was of course the Coronation weekend so was very topical). We shared stories of royal encounters including garden parties. By the end of the meeting we were all looking forward to the Coronation celebrations. In June, Aisha, Fallodon Way Medical Centre's Pharmacist, attended and gave an interesting and informative talk on patient safety and addressed a number of common misconceptions around medication and its use. Aisha was happy to answer questions and join us for some cake once she had finished.

I think we would all agree that after the talk we were all more educated albeit quite shocked at the value of unused/wasted medicines.

The Matthew of Bristol

The Matthew of Bristol's Maintenance Period runs during the winter months. Whilst the ship was on the slip at the Underfall yard in December volunteers cleaned it's bottom etc and painted same with anti fouling paint. After returning to the water a small dedicated team of volunteers, lead by the Skipper Rick Wakeham, carried out further maintenance to get the ship looking as great as it does today.

At our AGM in January we were shown the completed film for the Matthew 525 Project aimed at attracting Senior Schools ie the first two years of Senior Education (11 and 12 year olds), to come and visit and learn more about John Cabot, Medieval England and The Matthew of Bristol.

This film can be viewed on our web site. It is about half an hour long but well worth watching. There is also a version with sub-titles.

The Matthew "Season" 2023 commenced slowly in March with School Trips, progressing as the weather improved to Gorge Trips, Harbour Trips, Fish and Chip Trips and a filming job for Italian Television during May.

The Matthew Trustees and Volunteers are looking forward to the next few months when it will be our busiest time with Gorge trips happening almost every other weekend.

We will also be doing Harbour trips during the Harbour Festival weekend 15th/16th July.

Unfortunately we have lost a few volunteers this last year due to ill health, age, death etc and are currently on the look out for more, hopefully catching people who have recently retired.

The Volunteers we have are a stalwart bunch who give their all for The Matthew.

Schools Programme

Many volunteers have now happily returned to their previous, or sometimes new, schools and in May we ran a face-to-face training session – it was lovely to participate once again 'in person' rather than through Zoom!

Last December, Angie Osmand stepped down as our trainer after seven years in the role. We welcome in her place Frances Roberts, an ex-primary school head in Bristol. We acknowledged Angie's sterling input at a coffee morning for volunteers from Bristol, South Gloucestershire and North Somerset in February. Other events enabling volunteers to meet and exchange notes included a coffee morning for BANES volunteers in March and an upcoming lunch there in July. Together, the events have involved around 50 volunteers and always generate lively conversation.

Despite the welcome return of many volunteers, the pandemic has unfortunately dented our numbers, although their input is still much needed. We are recruiting in various ways. Joan Whitehead, our schools organiser in BANES, recently arranged for the News Editor of the Bath Voice to visit Twerton

Infants School, to see the pupils in action and learn from the Head how valuable retired/semi-retired volunteers are to the school. Publication of that article has attracted several new volunteers.

If you know someone who might enjoy supporting young people with reading and numeracy do pass on our details and encourage them to get involved. Children and staff really appreciate the support – as evidenced by children's pleas to read with volunteers, grateful thank you cards at the end of term and even 'high fives' between children and passing volunteers in the school corridor! It would be great to boost our numbers back to prepandemic levels.

The Archie Project

The Archie Project is described as an exciting, intergenerational dementia awareness project that links local primary schools with care homes, ultimately to dispel the fear and stigma often associated with dementia and create more dementia-friendly communities.

In November the children at St Saviours Junior School in Bath were introduced to Archie who is a scarecrow who has been diagnosed with dementia. The children were all given a booklet and storybook. They learn that Archie experiences feelings of loneliness and isolation. They learn that even though older people forget stuff, they will still have feelings.

I have been a reading volunteer for about five years at the Infant School and heard that volunteers were needed to accompany groups of eight children, walking from the school to Oriel Lodge care home. We also help the children with communicating with the residents and how to join in with the activities.

The volunteer role is one afternoon a week and the children are encouraged to chat to the residents beginning with asking their names and something about their families, the jobs they had, and what activities they enjoy. Some of the residents are more chatty then others and the children begin to discover that the person may have difficulty hearing them, or cannot see very well so they learn to be a bit more understanding of their limitations. There are always participatory activities, games of snakes and ladders, ludo, snap, picture dominoes and jigsaw puzzles. So, whilst doing an activity together they engage in conversation and help the residents to play the game.

When they leave, the elderly residents stand at the window waving to them and on the way back to school the children say that they had fun and enjoyed the experience.

How do RSVP West Organisers and Coordinators feel about their role?

All our Organisers/Coordinators were invited recently to complete a survey on their volunteering role in a pilot study that was also used to shape a national survey of RSVP Organisers across the UK. The survey was compiled in collaboration with the national RSVP Steering Group.

The survey was received by 38 Organisers and 27 responses were returned – an excellent response rate of over 70%.

The results showed that most Organisers really enjoy their roles, with an average satisfaction score of 4.3 out of a possible maximum of 5.

The findings are summarised in the graphics below. We were interested to note that there was a positive response to retaining our name which seems to sum up well who we are and what we do.

Thank you to everyone who completed the survey – the feedback will be invaluable in the development of RSVP strategy at local and national levels.

Water Company Priority Services Register

Your local water company, eg Bristol Water or Wessex Water operate a register of vulnerable people who get extra help and support. This includes during emergencies such as loss of water supply, contact via a chosen method of communication or via a nominated contact, and waiting for the door to be answered if more time is needed.

Contact: Telephone 0345 6003600 or visit: www.bristolwater.co.uk/register-for-priority-service

Other utility companies have similar services.

Many thanks to all our contributors including to Alex Winchester for the graphics formatting in the survey article on pages 6 and 7.
